

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

At Applemore College, two English lessons are never the same. The department is made up of passionate specialists who take pride in delivering engaging, thought-provoking lessons and extra-curricular activities.

The English department maintain high expectations of all their students and take pride in instilling a passion for learning. English at Applemore College moves beyond literacy and comprehension to developing engaged critical thinkers.

At the heart of English we promote reading for pleasure, a skill vital for students' development; classes have dedicated time to engage with and enjoy a range of texts. Supported by our enthusiastic teachers and Librarian, students are guided and challenged to broaden their understanding of the world around them.

Working with Kings College, London, the English department embed independence, resilience and communication in students through the Let's Think in English programme. Students are encouraged to work in collaboration to think beyond the page and explore texts with a critical eye.
